For a sommelier, the importance of the structure and writing of the wine list represents the bulk of communication between the consumer and the product.

We believe at The Beehive that this approach must be creative and avant-garde, while respecting the traditions and rules of writing.

We have therefore chosen to present our selection of wines by dividing them by common places: “the soil”.

Dividing between five major groups is a deliberate choice to simplify reading. Each wine is different because it is also the choice of grape varieties and human intervention, “The Soil” is only a common axis in the diversity of the definition of “Terroir”, but cannot be limited as only a single factor.

That is why our service team is present and willing to help you in your choice, so that you can find a wine that represents your wishes at the moment.

We also deeply believe that wine should be the most natural as possible, so our selection supports winemakers that use ecological and healthy agriculture and winemaking practices.

Sommelier: AJ Merritt

This is a grouping of Soil that is included in the five selections:

SAND AND SANDSTONE SOIL:

Sandstone - A combination of silica and sand compacted together by pressure and time.

VOLCANIC SOIL:

Tufa - A mix of silica, calcium carbonate and sometimes volcanic ash that has been deposited over time by streams, lakes and other water sources.

Jory - A volcanic soil composed mostly of basalt, which is in turn a hard and dense soil that often has a glassy appearance.

LIMESTONE, CALCAIREOUS AND QUARTZ SOIL:

Calcareous - A soil primarily composed of calcium carbonate and high in chalk or limestone as well as fossilized shells

Alluvial - A combination of clay, silt, sand and gravel that forms over time from mineral deposits left by running water.

Limestone or Chalk - A soft soil made primarily from fossilized seashells.

ROCKS, PEBBLES SOIL, GRANITE:

Granite - A hard and granular rock with a high content of crystals, particularly quartz.

Schist - A metamorphic rock derived mostly from clay, but it can be made from several other rocks. Schist is a soft rock that flakes and breaks easily.

CLAY SOILS:

Loam - A crumbly mixture of clay, sand and silt.

Marl - A crumbly mixture of different clays as well as calcium and magnesium carbonates with fossilized shells mixed in as well.

Shale - Layers of clay-like, fine-grained sedimentary rock. On the surface where the shale breaks it often forms beds of sharp fragments.
